

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

This invention provides a hair styling appliance including a first handle and a second handle, the second 5 handle being operatively connected to the first handle, a glass surface on at least one of the first and second handles, and a heater in at least one of the first and second handles for at least heating the glass surface.